

- Patinkas Fact Sheet -

Trigonic Quartz

Walter Bruneel's Trigonic Crystal Oversoul Channelling

The following is an account of a channeling which took place at Judy Hall's home on 27th March 2010

Part of our civilisation started out being remnants of the several races that had to do with the battles of what is called 'The Electric Wars'. This had to do with the Universe, ultimate reality. The Electric Wars had to do a lot with what you now call the battle between Good and Evil, and has been at the base of what is later the reality of polarities that you would now call Luciferian or Ariamanic. Our civilisation has sought refuge on your planet and has co-started with other streams of consciousness, the basic civilisation that has been developing into what you would now call Lemurian, on Lemuria and on Atlantis and other ones that you have no names for [millennia ago].

Now, the Thule you are referring to [the group had been discussing the Thule civilisation], is not the one that has been described by your chronicle writers. The Thule civilisation we are referring to is one that is on a very pure and etheric base settled in parts of the planet that are now the south poles. A small part of the civilisation would be still alive under what you would now call the Gobi Desert. There is a connection to subterranean levels, which you in your terms would call Gaia, but they are not the true descendants of the civilisation.

The one that is connected to this type of crystal, to this kind of material - I have some information - it's more connected to the extraterrestrial race that originated it.

We will expand on the effect of The Electric Wars. They had to do with the race that was very committed to making any other technologically less evolved race, slaves or subservient At the other hand there was a whole organisation of civilisations that were very much committed to the spiritual cosmic laws and freedom.

All of this was part of one of 3 big grand experiments by Source itself, to develop a Universe which would deal with polarity. In the second case, it ended in disaster. In the first case as well. We are part of the aftermath of the second experiment. Some of us were able to make the leap into what you would call another dimensional reality, which is on the one hand, in the material Earth, but on the other hand in which you would consider a higher overtone. So to speak, the sites are in your reality, we are still there, we are still accessible.

The externalisation of those crystals that you are now considering, has to do with the re-emerging of technological, and in your terms psychotropic possibilities, which can be used for the better of the whole consciousness of the whole planet, and for the healing and integration of a bigger Universe than you can possibly consider or even imagine feasible.

There is a lot of repetition in your history and there will be protagonists, important souls, like all souls are important, returning to correct some of the things that have been done in previous times. We don't want to elaborate on the fact of reincarnation which is only a part of the reality we are talking about. The healing that will happen, has its extent into the future as well as the present and the past. So the crystals are kind of awakeners or devices that make remembrance possible for those of you who have had experiences in parallel realities or other dimensions in this reality.

What was the cause of this emigration to this planet? The search for Freedom. We had a Cosmic Contract, a cosmic agreement which the consciousness that you would create, that you would consider the Creative Gods, that he might add to it, might make it more rich, a combination. It is like you would have a contract to accomplish a certain detail, a certain piece of art, and suddenly you get to know a new medium, which makes it possible to get an even better result. At the same time it was beneficial for both parties, we could find a safe harbour. At the same time you would develop a consciousness a bit further, a stretch further than was originally intended.

Now, this was also an experiment, although everything happens within the course of Source, nothing is written in stone and eventually everything will develop within the course of Source but there are lots of, myriads of timelines and possible realities. If we would have to explain the Solar Systems or the Galaxies we create from, it would be of no avail to your knowledge because they are far beyond this system. Even talking about dimensional realities, which are not fit to be taught in the left-brain kind of reasoning or thinking, the best comparison we can give you is that if you have a finite structure of cubes constructed in your reality we would come out of the structure that would be totally based on curves.

This consciousness can accept questions now.

Jacqui: We have discussed this afternoon, how the information came into the individual crystals, could you enlighten us on that?

Reply: It would be a very simple matter of mind methering where just the imprint got materialised within the form of matter that you would consider plasm, plasma or plasmic. Then through the ages and through a series of cosmic guides it got solidified into matter. When it started out as this big puddle of energy rather making the step quickly between energy and matter without any type of crystallisation as you know it. It was like, condensed into being, into materiality, without some of the necessary in-between steps that you normally have. There is a reference to that, that you have in your mineral kingdom that is called Zincite. You could consider it more or less the same process.

Jacqui: We have all felt a sort of a watery consciousness - is this correct?

Reply: The watery consciousness you are referring to has to do with the chemical element of water. At the same time there is also a thing that you would call a Supercomputer which is based on water molecules and which was one of the technologies which we were using and in which information was stored. Within the distance of 3 axis along a water molecule without having need of any kind of physical stock, component or heart that you normally would use. Now your technology is piggy-backing this kind of thing and is getting back to this state of information recording.

Jacqui: How could we best use these crystals? By meditating with them, how are they likely to affect us, by working with them?

Reply: All of them are making a maze or making a connection between each one of them, there is a communication going on. As well as sending back and forth the information it send and receives, all of them are transceivers, they transmit and they receive. Just as well that with the people that will be, the souls that will be, attracted to them are their soul groups. All of them will get this feedback system going. The information of the crystals will be going to the person and the information of the person will be going back to all the crystals in their original soul group and interstellar group that will be acting with it. Now some of us would be considered to be 'in your space' and by this I mean in your inter-dimensional space, like Vega, Lyra, the Pleiadians and even far beyond that. There is a strong station as well in Orion, and Orion was known to be on the opposing side of the Electric Wars, but not all of it. Same with the Pleiadians. A lot of old wars will be dissolved, resolved. The crystals will be activating a kind of new vibration which will dissipate some of the very, very old energies that are based on this planet which are a faint resonance of the Electric Wars. But the memory of the Electric Wars is very important within the human race. It has been embedded in it and it is ready to be released.

Jacqui: Would it be beneficial to make an essence of these crystals?

Reply: Absolutely.

Jacqui: How could this be used - as a spray, or to be taken internally?

Reply: It can be used in different ways. One of the possibilities can be to just release it into the open air and allow it to contact any type of water or big body of water that is on the planet. A drop of water can connect to the crystal, it can inherit its information, then you allow this drop of water to be released within bodies of water like oceans, rivers. This is already quite a physical way of doing things, you can also just allow your mind to do this, we would encourage you to allow the water molecules of the planet just by focusing on it, to absorb and release further information that is based in the crystals. You are the decoders, the souls that are working with it will be releasing the information and by this means, allowing it to be dissipated into the water accessing the other minds and other souls also on the planet. I repeat you are the decoders.

Jacqui: So, would this be beneficial to the sea?

Reply: It will be beneficial to the entire planet and evolution of the galaxy.

Jacqui: One personal thing, could you put into the consciousness of the channel a vision of...

Reply: Consider it done!

Jacqui: Thank you very much for coming through, thank you for channelling this to us.

(Note from transcriber: Can't quite get the name/ planet or race.) -

This was Sky-hai e ? of Nevemitica? My phonetic note was Kahie).

Walter Bruneel
Copyright © Walter Bruneel 2010